PUT YOURSELVES IN OTHERS' PLACES

"WE ARE slaves!" exclaims a southern California school marm. "We are driven like beasts. Our duties are arduous and our hours long." The lady may have just cause to complain, but she should tell her troubles to the telephone girl, to the housemaid, to the seamstress, yes, to the married woman with five babies and a husband who simply draws the union scale without any overtime.

Let's analyze the case of the school marm: She's "in the dry and in the warm," as a trustee told the writer back in the Alleghenies when he went to a "school letting," where the salary was $19 a month and board around. This teacher gets probably a hundred dollars a month for her services. She teaches from 9 to 12, with a fifteen minute recess, and from 1 to 4, with a quarter of an hour respite. That makes five and a half hours a day. She teaches an average of twenty days a month. That makes one hundred and ten hours or nearly a dollar an hour. Of course, she takes papers home to look them over and put marks on them and sometimes, if her own education has been neglected, she must "bone up" in the evening for the lessons of the morrow.

A teacher should not be discontented with such a lot, when the telephone girl is a most abject slave of the public and at infinitely less pay and much longer hours. The servant girl is made to feel her social inferiority in addition to the drudgery entailed by her position. The seamstress grows weak-eyed and stoop-shouldered. The task of the mother who strives to make both ends meet and has all the work and worry of child care is a task that is never completed and she receives no salary for it. Let this Los Angeles school marm forget her troubles, for they are few, and her burdens, for they are light, when compared with those of the tired girl who stands all day behind a ribbon counter or the stenographer who, to hold down her position, has to take part of her work home and hammer away on the keys of a rented machine until the midnight hour. A teacher who is discontented with her lot should be given a most cordial invitation to resign, for she is unfitted to her position.

LIQUEFACTION OF FORD STOCK

HENRY FORD is the best advertised man in the United States through his innovations in the world of labor and through his car, which is the butt of more widespread jest than anything else since the early days of the Erie railroad. But now Mr. Ford has done something that needs some explanation. But now Mr. Ford has done something that needs some explanation. He has occupied first page space with news that he has raised the capitalization of his motor company from two million to 100,000,000, either shares or dollars, the first dispatches not making that plain, but presumably it is shares.

This is turning on a considerable head of water, an increase of 4900 per cent in one jump. If a railway company were to do this the world would jump on it with both feet. Perhaps Mr. Ford knew exactly what he was doing and perhaps he did just right, but what we want to know is why it was done and whether or not it comes within the limits of the laws governing corporations. About the best a mining company can do and its officers stay out of jail is to add equal parts water, stir thoroughly and then let it simmer.

AS IT LOOKS TO MANY

INTERVIEWED on his way west with some other national lawmakers, Representative Mann, Republican floor leader, said he thought Republicans would certainly win next year because of the Democratic tariff and Democratic failure. He added that the people are tired of experiments.

Uncle Joe Cannon, another member of the party, expressed the emphatic belief that the Democrats were doomed to defeat because there had been too much of the psychology business in the past two years at Washington. "Psychology may make you feel better when you are in the dumps, but psychology never put bread in anybody's stomach," he declared.

These two Republicans correctly reflect an opinion as to next year's election that is not only shared in by the opponents of the Democratic party, but by a great many keen observers in that party. The older generation has never forgotten the hard times associated with Democratic rule, and apparently the younger voters have had something of the same sort indelibly impressed upon their minds by events of the past two years.

LET'S SEE THAT TARIATION

IN THEIR present condition of tariviation the streets of Tonopah still leave considerable to be desired. Perhaps this road binding material was just what they needed, but its concealment beneath fine gravel that is rapidly disintegrating into dust is not a source of infinite pleasure and ultimate comfort on windy days, and the breezes are rarely still in this city. If we have been able to afford tarvia—and it cost a pretty penny—do not hide it under a bushel of dust. See St. Matthew for the precedent.

Perhaps it is the intention to later remove this overburden and expose the tarred surface. This would not only relieve the people of the dust plague, but would afford exercise for the prisoners who are miledewing in the city and county jails, or give employment to deserving men who are out of work. Then that Charley Ross of a sprinkling cart might be located in some hidden recess.

MISTAKES OF MOSES HOHENZOLLERN

THE German government expresses its willingness to pay the United States for the damage done to the Gulfight, which it torpedoed "by mistake." Very well; let payment be accepted and on these terms: Collect a billion dollars indemnity and then get the kaiser's permission to drop a few shrapnel and asphyxiating gas bombs on the Reichstag "by mistake." You know it is a principle of law that exemplary damages be exacted. Will Germany consider these terms favorably?

By the way, wasn't it also a "mistake" to consider the Lusitania an armed cruiser? Germany has made a great number of mistakes since it sent its first ultimatum, and that was the biggest mistake of all.

ITS FATAL WEAKNESS

NO CHAIN is stronger than its weakest link. The fatal weakness that has characterized the work of this administration from its inception two years ago has been its eagerness to propose laws, carelessness in drafting them, haste in committee action, and stubborn refusal to permit intelligent amendment in either House or Senate after the party brand had been affixed by the all-powerful caucus.

Every American citizen has had to help pay for these costly experiments. There will be still more to pay until the errors have been corrected by thoughtful, intelligent legislation.

"Hallstones fell the size of eggs," wires a Baker City correspondent, as correspondents have wired and written ever since hallstones were invented, but he does not specify what kind of eggs. Files lay eggs, we are told, and so does the giant roc.

As media of exchange Mr. Wilson's notes are running a close second to those of the government bureau of engraving.

VIRGINIA CITY BOY

HELD FOR ROBBERY

Sam Hass, a Virginia City youth 18 years old, has confessed to breaking into and robbing the store of Chung Kee, a Chinese merchant of Virginia City, says the Journal. Hass broke a pane of glass in the door of the store and ransacked the place, taking $225 from a tin box under the bed of the Chinaman. He gave $200 to Eva Harvey, a woman of the underworld, for a diamond ring and spent the rest of the money. The Harvey woman was arrested in Reno on her way to

British Columbia, and returned the $200. Hass confessed to robbing the place and will probably be taken to the reform school at Elko, though the Chinaman refused to prosecute the case after the money was returned to him.

BROTHER RAY RETURNS

Ray Baker, who has been attached to the United States embassy at Petrograd, is back in New York City and will doubtless shortly visit his old stamping grounds in Nevada.

Proven, practical value appeals to the buyer of a motor car. More than 700,000 satisfied Ford owners prove the practical qualities of Ford cars. In town or country, in the professions or on the farms, for business or pleasure, the Ford serves everybody. An average allowance of two cents a mile keeps it going. It's cheaper than walking.

Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.

Business Is Good

"Peace hath her Victories no less renowned than War."

There is but little cause for complaint from citizens of this country—in fact, we should all be thankful that our lot has been cast in "Liberty Loving America." Business conditions are good and we do not anticipate any immediate reversal of these favorable conditions.
